We are a faith-led medical ministry serving working uninsured adults in Wake County in need of affordable, quality healthcare.

Filling the Healthcare Gap

According to the North Carolina Institute of Medicine, more than 126,000 adult residents of Wake County are uninsured and lack access to affordable medical care. In North Carolina, 82% reside in a working household. People who lack insurance are at higher risk of going without needed care, such as a doctor’s visit for a chronic condition, preventative screenings or filling a prescription due to their limited ability to pay.

What does Alliance do?

We provide comprehensive medical care to our patients, including time with a physician, lab work, access to medication, health education, chronic disease management, bilingual services, pastoral counseling and 24-hour coordination of care. Alliance functions just like a medical home for an insured adult with additional services to help overcome barriers that uninsured low-income patients face.

How Does Alliance Work?

Patients can self-refer and are also referred from emergency departments, the Health Department, and social service organizations. At each visit, patients pay a small fee, typically $25, which is based on household income and a sliding scale. Our Primary Care Clinic is open five days a week. We are a medical home to 7,000 patients, with 93% having an annual household income of less than 200% of the Federal Poverty Guidelines. Our average patient lives in a household of three individuals, with all living on $19,907 a year.
